Sometimes I feel like we've got

nothing to say anymore
We sit around and fade into the walls
like old photographs

I guess it happens
as the days and years go by Something changes
and you don't know why and you're afraid to ask

Photographs
I don't want to be just a fading memory
torn in half by time All we have are pictures of us and the way loved used to be between you and me
Old photographs

We used to talk about mistakes our parents made We swore we'd never waste our lives that way
How the tables turn

Are we the same two people who fell in love Have we really changed so much or did we just grow up

CHORUS
