Well I just washed my car and I think it's gonna rain i'm not gonna quiver or complain, and I just smashed my hand on it's stupid metal frame that's enough to drive us all insane.
Nothing to sort out and nothing to do right,
always a thorn in my side and it's not right, so complicated we're tired and unpaid, tough to admit it accept it not my day.
And now i'm just a target, I'd bridge to word it so i'm just standing where I just don't know,
I know i'm not for you and I should be asking how should I stay asleep, or brave it now.
Nothing to sort out and nothing to do right,
always a thorn in my side and it's not right, so complicated we're tired and unpaid tough,
tough to admit it, accept it not my day.
