never

you're not too young to understand just because someone can be older than you doesn't make what you saw was unreal, because i know what i saw was real don't fool me i know what you do together is true would you just listen and please just understand that...yeah

you're never too young to understand just because i'm a child doesn't mean i have a weird imagination, just because i am a teenage girl doesn't mean i see things wrongly, all i've wanted was you to just remember

life can get better by the day, you just need to be patient hold my hand make sure you don't blow away with the wind

i'm always changing, i'm always feeling sorts of emotions with my new friends with my new beauty, with my new everything it must be too big for you to take and live in your house my hair isn't really precious but baby you are.

never too young to understand never too late to see something real. happen ohhh

don't go the wrong way....in this one i put trust in you, i hold you so the wind don't take you

ohhhh.
