Every time I look up at these pictures on the wall
I think I hear you calling but there's no one there at all
All the rooms are empty, dusty echoes in the hall, in the hall

It's all wrong, she's long gone
Like a ghost town
The cold wind blowing down an empty street
Like a ghost town

The shadow of what used to be
All we were keeps on haunting me
Like a ghost town
Like a ghost town

This house was full of color, now it looks all dark and gray
Where there once was music, a piano waits to play
Now I'll spend tomorrow in a town called yesterday, yesterday

It's all wrong, she's long gone
Like a ghost town
The cold wind blowing down an empty street
Like a ghost town

The shadow of what used to be
All we were keeps on haunting me
Like a ghost town
Like a ghost town

It's all wrong, she's long gone
Like a ghost town
The cold wind blowing down an empty street
Like a ghost town

The shadow of what used to be
All we were keeps on haunting me
Like a ghost town
Like a ghost town
