Are you lonely tonight?
Are you out on the road?
I'm headed home to go it alone again

Are you dreaming out loud?
Scared of the crowds?
Well, I'm headed home to go it alone again

It's realizing just how close you've come to death
And rearranging accordingly
I'm realizing what I've lost and what I've left
And taking it home to go it alone again

Find me a place
With salt on the roads
I'll do what I'm told and buy what I'm sold again

She was enough
But that was never enough
Wound that won't heal, pain I can't feel again

In real life these things don't happen much at all
It's too bad we all live the dream
I'm realizing just how far I had to fall
And taking it home to go it alone again

In real life these things don't happen much at all
It's too bad we all live the dream
I'm realizing just how far I had to fall
And taking it home to go it alone again

I'm taking it home to go it alone again
Taking it home to go it alone again
