Hurts just the same when you fall
And you let it go
Breathing is easier
Than being left alone

Your still stranded in the sunlight
Searching for a shadow
I'm staring at a black and white world
Outside the window

How many roads do you have to walk
How many lines do you have to cross
How many hearts do you have to break
Till you find the one you want
How many hearts?
How many hearts?

There's truth in life
Tricks in your feelings
Promise is poison
As if its one that you can't keep

The power in the pain
Is that it stains like a memory
I'm still learning how to feel at all
Since you left me

How many roads do you have walk
How many lines do you have to cross
How many hearts do you break
Till you find the one you want

How many homes do you leave behind
How many hills do you have to climb
How many hearts do you have to break
Till you find the one you want
How many hearts?
How many hearts?

How many roads do you have walk
How many lines do you have to cross

How many hearts do you break
Till you find the one you want

How many homes do you leave behind
How many hills do you have to climb
How many hearts do you have to break
To finally get it right
How many hearts?
How many hearts?
