I know this song has been written already It's not gonna stop me from writing again
Not gonna lie, I don't really wanna live
I'd rather be honest than impressive

Nothing has changed, and it's 12 years later
I'm more of a child than I was back then Positive thinking won't keep ships from sinking
I will jump unblinking off the plank, say when

[chorus]

This road is long, but my patience is not
And if I must face the gun squad again,
Then let me get shot
I will put on my dancing shoes,
While the gunmen are holding their breath
And scream, "one, two, three, one, two, three,
watch me, I'm waltzing with death"

If all you need is love, you won't find it Even Dr. Love aches for his lady luck
He's self-prescribed, and she's bleary-eyed
I think this verse died, I wish my songs didn't suck

[chorus]

This road is long, but my patience is not
And if I must face the gun squad again,
Then let me get shot
I will put on my dancing shoes,
While the gunmen are holding their breath
And scream, "one, two, three, one, two, three,
watch me, I'm waltzing with death"

I keep hoping I will die while I'm sleeping
But I keep waking up with no alarm beeping
This punishment's cruel, but not so unusual
The years they fly by, but the moments, they're creeping

[chorus]

This road is long, but my patience is not

And if I must face the gun squad again,
Then let me get shot
I will put on my dancing shoes,
While the gunmen are holding their breath
And scream, "One, two, three, one, two, three,
watch me, I'm waltzing with...
One, two, three, one, two, three,
watch me, I'm waltzing with...
Two, three, one, two, three, watch me
I'm waltzing with death"
