Verse 1:

She thinks it's easy
How it came about
How it played right out
Of her hands with how it ended
She feels her feelings
Were just went around
Not considered now
So I'm not surprised when she replies that

I gave up the fight
And I could scream the same in kind

Chorus:

But I don't have the heart to break either of ours
Even more

Verse 2:

She thinks it's easy
If she didn't I
Couldn't justify
What she says and tends to mention
Like how if my leaving
Her was something that
Left me with regrets
What a stupid fucking question

To ask when I could say that
If love has costs,
She lost her first, I lost who should be last

Chorus:

But I don't have the heart to break either of ours
Even more

Bridge:

She stares through tunnel-vision tints
Tends to use words like unfair critiquing how I've been
But is she sad that she'll lose me
Or sad that she's losing
'Cause I can't help but think it's more the second thing

Verse 3:

She thinks it's easy
She won't change her stance
And her evidence
Is how quickly I decided
'Cause how in one evening
Could I let it end?
It's a testament
To what little thought I brought

To what I did, when the truth of it is
The choice was put into her hands when she put hers in his

Chorus:

But I don't have the heart to break either of ours
I don't have the heart to break either of ours
I don't have the heart to break either of ours
Even more than they've already been
I don't have the heart to break either of ours
Even more
