Left running, you said you were flying
Left running, you said you were cold
Any statue you can name
Like the ones that I fell for

I've been looking over my shoulder
Would you love me when you're older?
Would you love me when you're older?
Still I know you're true

The first game is lost and you will
Another game is hidin' your fear
Ooh, please tell me how my heart
How can my heart can belong to you?

I've been looking over my shoulder
Would you love me when you're older?
Would you love me when you're older?
Still I know you're true

Every time that you look my way
I feel so hopeless your dreams own me

These landslides and buildings too high
That blocks the sun for everyone
Ooh, the law lives everywhere
And it lives without a care

I've been looking over my shoulder
Would you love me when you're older?
Would you love me when you're older?
Still I know you're true

I've been looking over my shoulder
Would you love me when you're older?
Would you love me when you're older?
Still I know you're true

Left running, you said you were flying
Left running, you said you were cold
