Just for a moment, I thought I was giving in
I thought maybe this road was taking it's toll
Wondering what happened to the fire
And what could've made it turn so cold

Then I started
Thinking about the difference
There was something that was pushing me
Back in again...

And I feel
I feel like the ground where I stand's been...
Pulled out by some unseen hand and I...
I feel as if I'm falling without a net...
And it's the best feeling I've had yet.

Where do we leave the things so close to home
When in the end they're all we have
There must be something to do about it
I know we can't go on living like that

So instead of worrying about the answers
I can only give myself another chance...

And I feel
I feel like the ground where I stand's been...
Pulled out by some unseen hand and I...
I feel as if I'm falling without a net...
And it's the best feeling I've had yet.

I feel like the ground where I stand's been...
Pulled out by some unseen hand and I...
I feel as if I'm falling without a net...
And it's the best feeling I've had yet.
