I thought any fool could be fooled only once that a burn child remembers the pain Yet here I am listening with stars in my eyes you're telling me sweet lies again They're tender and soothing like a kiss to my heart I know that is healing in vain The wound will be deepen you'll say we must part you're telling me sweet lies again [steel]
Let some angel or parry come rescue my heart Wave the one to change my fate that's so plain I'm lost in a trance or a spell I can't break you're telling me sweet lies again They sound so familiar like a book read before I know that the ending's the same

Some magic is holding me spell bound once more
you're telling me sweet lies again
