Lisa, I've never seen you
And just your name is all I know
And yet I know you have
Torn my world apart

Lisa, I found a letter
That you wrote not long ago
And the secret it revealed
Has broken my heart

You asked him if he told me
Or his love for you
If he'd asked me for his freedom
Like he said he'd do

Lisa, I burned your letter
But on my heart, the words remain
They've ruined my life and my
Life is haunted by your name

Lisa, I've heard of women like you
Who go after a man who's not free
You say it's right but
You know it's wrong

And that's why you meet secretly
In the shadows of night
Your arms hold him tight
And your lips whisper
Passions and lies

Lisa, is this your way
To live just for today
To break hearts and
Pretend you don't care

You may win if you cheat
But you'll find love bittersweet
Are you proud of your faithless affair
My heart is broken and
My dreams are dust and I long
To run somewhere and hide

But I made a vow
And I'll keep it now
And, Lisa, he'll never know
That I ever knew there was
Someone like you
But I'll never let him go

Lisa, I burned your letter
But on my heart, the words remain
They've ruined my life and my
Life is haunted by your name
