we've said it all
a thousand times before i've been to the wall and always found somewhere to turn there was always more to learn we've reached the end and almost closed the door and someone went in i never can remember who all i know is that we found the strength to make it through

love always finds a way when the clouds have no silver linings
she comes through shining love always seeks the light through the darkest night
in her small ways

holding you near after the storm has passed it becomes clear when all our tears have finally dried that no matter how we fools may try to turn the tide

and in those moments when the magic seems to fade we must remember then that's the time to keep on believing and not be afraid

if we can trust in what we really feel the two of us can hold tomorrow in our hands all it takes is just a faith that truly understand that...
