This town ain't big enough
For people like us
The lights ain't bright enough
To cut through the dust
Young people can't get a break
The only chance is to get away

And I'm never going home
I can never go home
No I'm never going home again

This town's a dead end
What makes up these streets
If you slip and fall down once
You'll never get back on your feet
You'll all go under if you leave it to late

And I'm never going home
I can never go home
No I'm never going home again

Just because we're different
We don't belong
From the way we get treated
It's if we're doing wrong
Four walls come any closer
I'm so tired I guess I know sir

And I'm never going home
I can never go home
No I'm never going home again

I can never go home
I can never go home
Never going home again

(Never going home)
(Never going home)
I'm never never going home again
(Never going home)

No I'm never never going home again
(Never going home)
(Never going home)
(Never going home)
(Never going home)
(Never going home)
(Never going home)
(Never)
