Remain

hey I know a boy who was born to this world with a wondering eye and dreaming a very old soul from way back before Jesus and the turning of the wheel

I can't believe December's gone hey mama look how much he's grown the night becomes the day snow turns into rain winter turns to spring so we must all

there is a road into town of dust and dirt brown that I travel in my dreamtime to a house full of people that I know or so it seems and these are memories that I cannot explain the boy's been blessed with his mother's eyes now I'm convinced that nothing dies.
