Any other mornin' you might have walked a different street
turned a different corner, instead of bumpin' into me you'd have never said excuse me I'd have never smiled and told you that's OK

We never would have set down it that quiet coffee shop traded old war stories about love we have lost I'd have never got your number before I kissed your cheek and walked away we wouldn't be here today

Chorus:

Oh, I almost never loved you another place another time I'D have missed your kiss forever and watched you walk on by I'd have gotten up this morning, just another lonely fool
I could never live without you And yet, I almost never loved you

Now, a man like me might as well admit it lovin' you was easy, the trick was fallin' in it All the "what-ifs" and near misses and the stars that had to line up perfectly scares me now to think

Chorus
