Why, she must come and poses me
In the heat of the night?
Toss and turn me and then disappear
Here, on the edge of obsession
I turn off all the lights and pray
That this fantasy can be real

Night and day I want to kiss her lips
And caress her like a man should do
She's become the center of my emotions and I can't fight through

She's on the left, she's on the right
She's in the middle of my life
She's in the middle of my mind

I, I can almost taste her
And smell the scent of her perfume
I wish she were here for me to lay next to She's so very close but like every illusion that's just how it appears
I reach out to touch and find out there's no one there Right now I'm going to close my eyes and go back to where I need to be Maybe then I'll get to hear her say she loves me and will never leave

She's in the middle of my life
She's in the middle of my mind
She's in the middle of my mind
Smack dib in the middle of my mind

Night and day I want to kiss her lips
And caress her like a man should do
She's become the center of my emotions and I can't

She's in the middle of my mind
Smack dib in the middle of my mind
She's in the middle of my mind
She's in the middle of my mind
She's in the middle of my mind
Girl's in the middle of my life
