When black gives in to violet the sky begins to sing
again
The waves upon the sand I hear bring about a breeze so light
I couldn't sleep at all tonight, so I get to see the dawn Shadows blue and very low, beautiful and slowly bright

I think I love you darling but I can't live in this moment I'm a product of the past you know and I worry about the future
Melancholy in my heart when I took a trip with you I took it very far away and lost my lonely grip that day

I want to feel you always close, I step away to find the view Perspective's just a distant light and nighttime always leaves me blue
Then black gives in to violet the sky begins to sing
again
Again, again, the waves and sea, beautiful and slowly bright
