I don't want a girl who hangs on every word I say Who shows me off to her parents over roast beef on Sunday

I don't want a girl who thinks she has to fake

I don't want a girl who laughs at every little joke I make

I just want someone

To share my life with

I just want someone

To share my life with

I don't want a girl who thinks there's only me to please

I don't want a girl who thinks it's fun to tease

I don't want a girl who thinks she has to cater for my every needs

I don't want a girl to go down on her knees

I just want someone

To share my life with

I just want someone

To share my life with

And that someone could be you

That someone could be you

You could be that someone
