

Jer Coons

"You'll Never Know"

Visit "You'll Never Know" on MotoLyrics.com

She sees the tone in his voice, evidence of his choice to sever everything they've been developing

She goes from do-as-your-told to watching creases unfold she'll ascertain to what extent he is enveloping

Every day that turns she's getting smaller, when she's feeling insecure he doesn't bother to do anything for her allegiance makes him taller, so she's putting up her guard it makes her want to holler

You'll never know until you get much older that you could take a dip, but the water's colder than you remember it, cause you're rarely sober you don't even care that it's almost over

Before the leaving that she's finally achieving she's seeing all the energy lost when she lived so emptily now she's learning love he simply wasn't earning he held on so assertively, her heart became his currency

She's trying not to fold but she's simply empty-handed now that he's thinly veiled she sees she never could have managed what's clearly not her fault, the logic's not demanded he doesn't feel the urge to try and fix the damage

You'll never know until you get much older
that you could take a dip but the water's colder
than you remember it, cause you're rarely sober
you don't even care that it's almost over

You'll never know until you get much older
that you could take a dip but the water's colder
than you remember it, cause you're rarely sober you don't even care, you don't even care

Visit Jer Coons page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.

MotoLyrics.com | Lyrics, music videos, artist biographies, releases and more.