Don't you want me? To like you more if you could save me but I forget the reason why you think I should care.
It's not my
Problem I'll call you when I want some but, I forget the reason why you think I should care I hate people like that 'cause people
Like that treat you like that I hate people like that cause people like that treat you like that when they want something it's Like you're psycho I tried to talk about it but no you wouldn't listen when I said it was all gets better it's time to let it go
You're only breathing 'cause I say so and I can tell you that it still won't get much better I hate people like that 'cause
People like that treat you like that when they want something I hate people like that 'cause people like that treat you like that
When you've got something I hate people like that when people like that treat you like that you've got to put your fist in and
Now you're frozen caught in the headlights of the chosen but I'll still be here baby when it all gets better hey man that's way
Cool face down in your success pool now all the bitches in the world wont make you better I hate people like that 'cause people
Like that treat you like that when you've got something I hate people like that when people like that treat you like that you've Got to put your fist in they say life's what you make it they say life's what you make it they say life's what you make it
