Reciever: (answers the phone) Can I help you?

Sol Rosenberg (caller): Hello?

R: Yes, can I help you?

SR: Yes, I need a turnstile.

R: Okay, what kind?

SR: What do you mean what kind?

R: Whoa just about 700 varieties...

SR: (farts when the reciever talks) Oh my god!

R: ...what's the application what are you using it for?

SR: I'm gonna use it out front by the house by the walk way.

R: You're gonna use it in front of your house.

SR: Yes.

R: By the walk way.

SR: Yes.

R: Okay, and what is the purpose of the turnstile?

SR: Well, we have a lot of people coming in to view my mother. You understand?

R: Okay.

SR: Yes, she seems to have been lopped off one of her legs with a haycicle so all the neighborhood people come to see, you know.

R: Come to see her?

SR: Yes.

R: Okay.

SR: And, uh, I just wanted a turnstile so I can keep count. There's too many people at one time, you know.

R: Mmm-hmm.

SR: (farts again) Ow!

R: You're looking for money or something like that, though.

SR: Yes. Well, I just don't everbody filing in all at once and this would make them go in single file, you see.

R: Mmm-hmm.

SR: And my mother doesn't seem to mind very much because they leave a donation.

R: Right.

SR: And she lays into bed there and everybody comes to see her and I feel a little awful.

R: Right.

SR: Yeah. You don't have them I guess.

R: We have turnstiles. But are you prepared to send 7 or 800 dollars for a turnstile.

SR: We can make that in a day perhaps. It would pay for itself.

R: Mmm-hmm.

SR: You see? Do you put coins in it?

R: No, but we can make them with coins but it would be awful expensive to have a token coin box on it. We have a portable turnstile.

SR: Oh! So I could, uh, you know what I...

R: You can move it wherever you like.

SR: Then I could move it right the bed beside my mother.

R: Right.

SR: So you could walk around the bed and get with another turnstile, more money! You see.

R: Yes, well. Someone would be there collecting the money.

SR: My mother would hold I a cup. I would give her a cup.

R: Right.

SR: You see.

R: Right.

SR: You know we still keep the leg in the house too so she could... So what if people could look what happens if you play with a haysicle, you know.

R: What's your address and phone number?

SR: My address?

R: Right. So we can send you a picture and a price.

SR: I live at, uh, 26 (beep) West Street.

R: And I'm speaking with?

SR: Sol. I said Sol Rosenberg.

R: Okay.

SR: And my mother's name is Gimpy. You know. It's not very nice but, what is she gonna do about it.

R: Okay, we'll send you something in the mail.
