It's your expression when you see the ocean
The way your eyes fill with emotion
When you hold a newborn child
Or that gaze when you're lost in thought
Tryin' to figure out fourteen across
It ends with you
Oh and that face you make at my bad jokes
Pointin' your finger down your throat
And crossin' those pretty eyes

That's the look the brings the smile
That gets the touch
That always drives me wild for you
That's the look that fans the fire
That fills my mind and body with desire for you
Yeah that's the look

You've got this thing about you
Makes people want to be around you
They wanna share your light
But there's a look I love to see
One you save for only me
Only for my eyes
In those quiet times when it's just us two
When the want to rushes over you
And it's somethin' you don't hide

That's the look the brings the smile
That gets the touch
That always drives me wild for you
That's the look that fans the fire
That fills my mind and body with desire for you
Yeah that's the look
