Where is that tomorrow that placed in time?
That day when your memory don't occupy my mind
That mornin' when I wake up with no regrets to find
Oh, how many tomorrows will that be?
How many tomorrows till I'm free?

I wonder how long until these heartaches end
Till yesterday's forgotten, till the hurtin' wears in
And how much time, your memory is there, left for me to spin
Oh, how many tomorrows will that be?
How many tomorrows till I'm free?

Oh, they say that time can break the chains
That bind your heart to yesterday
But deep inside of me is the love for you
That time will never take away, it's there to stay

So a million tomorrows won't ease all the pain
And every day without you will be more the same
Achin' just to hold you inside these arms again
Oh, how many tomorrows will that be?
How many tomorrows till I'm free?
