Deep in the hollow of my heart
What am I waiting for, something to start?
Some kind of fire to burn me up in a flame?
I would really love to start all over again
I wouldn't ask you for your sympathy
I'd never want you to worry for me
Isn't there someplace to put away all the pain?
I would really love to start all over again
Follow me closer now under the stars
Into the water to wash off the scars
Let's be together and never say we're afraid
I would really love to start all over again
I would really love to start all over again
I would really love to start all over again
