It's a thin line, it's a long time
From stagnation to revelation
It's a freight train
Through my fried brain
It's a wake up
It's a shake up
I tore up the masterplan
But get it right now and then
There's a few days I regret
But I ain't giving up just yet

First day on a brand new planet

I kept my head down
When I was young
I asked a question
Where did it go wrong
But all the answers
They made my brain hurt
The lesson I learned
Was to shake up
And every time i get shot down
I start again I work it out
There's a few days I regret
But I ain't giving up just yet

First day on a brand new planet
