Featherweight in my hand, there's something that I...I need to know and how is it you can carry all this weight upon, this weight upon your back?
And Heather, life is all you believe in,
and Heather somethings that I need that I need to know... where you've been, in my hope.
And Featherweight in my hand there's something that I...I need to show you.
This world, this world I've been and where I'm going....it's all that I owe you.
And Heather you've always believed and dreamed in my soul.
And Heather it's time that I tell you all that I've known is where you come from and all where I've grown is what you've believed in and things that I know and the times spent offering... the seed in your belly, a son you've never known and daughter to me.
Life's been the times that I've known.
And Featherweight in my hand,

there's something that I need to tell you that you've always known...

you're a Featherweight in my hand and your life seems to change me everytime that I grow.

And Featherweight in my hand,

there's times that I see you and where I want to know.

And Heather you've always believed in everything I've shown

and Heather life seems to change me and where we've outgrown this fence that you've built in your home,

this husband that you've, you've tagged as your own,

this son that you've had,

you've had on your own and times that I spend all that I know and times that I've spent and everything that I hope...

And Featherweight in my hand,

you'll always be Featherweight in my hand...

you'll always be Featherweight in my hand...

you'll always be Featherweight in my hand
