Nobody sees her here, her eyes are slowly closing
If she should want some peace, she sits there
Without moving and puts a pillow over the phone

And if she feels like dancing, no one will know it
Giving herself a chance there's no need
To show her how it should be

She can't remember now, when she was all in pieces
She's quite content to sit there listening to what he says
How he didn't like to be alone

And if he feels like crying, she's there to hear him
No reason to complain and nothing to fear
They always will be
