I've wandered these crowded streets
And wondered if love I'll ever meet
But something beyond this concrete sky
Is pulling in me

I want to fly away
I just want to live for today
I want to fly away
I just want to live for today

Seems like this storm has only begun
Since I've become a homeless one
But something about the rain at night
Always takes me away

I want to fly away
I just want to live for today
I want to fly away
I just want to live for today

And I don't mind feeling this pain
Just as long as I'm feeling
Let me believe that I'll see you someday

I turn to the only familiar face
And wonder about human race
Cause something behind my little on eyes
Is crying to me

I want to fly away
I just want to live for today
I want to fly away
I just want to live for today
I want to fly away
I just want to live for today
I want to fly away
I just want to live for today
