There's paper scattered on the lawn
Birds up on the line
There's letters left unopened here
There never is the time
There's messages I should return
And people I should call
But im still tripping over echoes left lying in the wall
This light comes through the darkness slowly to my eyes
You can fall back here forever I just never realized

Oh time won't let me go
And every night I know
That you could pull me through
You could always pull me through
Even when im lying here
Drowning in my blues
You take the sting out of rain
Bring the sun back up again
You could always pull me through

Oh we stood outside together and
We laughed like ancient friends
Then we laid down in the field just where the road begins and ends
I see you in the mirror and I watch you from afar
My friends all think im crazy but I know the way things are
And outside I hear voices underneath the moon
But im grateful for whatever makes the...

Oh time won't let me go
And every night I know
That you could pull me through
You could always pull me through
Even when im lying here
Drowning in my blues
You take the sting out of rain
Bring the sun back up again
Darling you could always pull me through

I hope your traveling well now and there's stars over your head
And I hope the river carries you everywhere you said
Well I miss the way you look at me
The way you wear your hair
And I miss the conversations we left hanging in the air
Oh late at night I wake up
Wonder what's begun
I know our life together will go on and on

You could pull me through
You could always pull me through
Wrapped your arms around me
And chase away my blues
You take the sting out of rain
Bring the sun back up again
And you could always pull me through
You could always pull me through
