1st Verse:

I'll wait for the right time to tell you everything I've ever had in mind so I'll write these letters ever so easily about our long lost passion that was thrown away

Chorus:

Don't you ever say you never had the chance to make that one last call that could have fixed this all you had to do was take a look into yourself and in your soul is where you'll find that hole where guts are missing (or so I've heard that you can't say those words the three that mean the most we used to be so close but now were far away)

2nd Verse:

And here we are alone at last so tell me anything you want about our past but I bet you can't name one without thinking so I'll let you listen in on what was never said
