One night in Old Monterey by the silvery Rio Grande
I fell in love as the Spanish violins played
My lovely señoritas serenade
The violins were singing a love song
And my heart sang the song that they played

We held each other near till both our hearts could hear
My lovely señoritas serenade
Spanish violins sing your love song again
Our hearts are light and gay every time you play
My lovely señoritas serenade

The violins seemed to say hold her closer
And make her lips your own
I held her in my arms and we shared each other's charms
And the Spanish violins played on
The violins were singing
Spanish violins sing your love song again
