I painted myself into a corner
But footprints are just about to become part of my design
Now that I've found myself over the line

And I cannot blame any body but myself
'Cause every single choice I ever made was mine
And now, I find myself a little outta line

You see the signs
A love light shines
Between the lines
A love light shines
Between the lines

There's a lot of water under the bridges
That are burning but It's a fact we can finally float or fly just fine
But Baby, don't get tangled in the bottom line

Looking back into the darkness
Will only blind your mind and heart and feed you that same old line
Come and we will cross the great divine

You see the signs
A love light shines
Between the lines
A love light shines
Between the lines

You see the signs
A love light shines
Between the lines
A love light shines
A love light shines
Between the lines
