There she goes, she's magic
Do you know why she cries?
You see the light of heaven in her eyes

She walks upon the waters
Of your dreams and lies
Upon your bed of love and life and dies

There she goes
Even in small ways
There she goes
It seems like always

There she goes, she's magic
I see her everywhere
Her dancing and delight defy despair

She troubles me with troubles
And a silent stare
Pretending she's pretending I don't care

There she goes
Even in small ways
There she goes
It seems like always

There she goes, she's magic
If you could understand
The faith and trust her love and light demand

With prophecy and poetry
At her command
She holds the key to heaven in her hand

There she goes
Even in small ways
There she goes
It seems like always

There she goes, she's magic
Do you know why she cries?
She sees the light of heaven in your eyes
