can you catch me

do you think you can catch me
do you think you can catch me why do you think you need to catch me i won't bang my head against your wall don't need to knock you down i won't let you to fall

i won't bang my head against your wall
you convinced yourself can you convince us all no need to knock you down i won't let you fall if you want credit then take credit for it all you can bet
we're indebted to us all you can bet it
we're indebted to us all
you can bet it
we're in debt

do you think you can catch me

wish you could take away all the pain while you're at it take the pleasure then and as you lie cover your treasures thin heros find no friend in heroin and once again the hero's overtaken by the heroin yes once again

and its just for with an awful lot of love and it's just for a girl who hasn't know him very long met her years ago, knew it would take a while to linger in her breath, to wake up in her smile and it's just for a boy just for a girl just for a girl just for the boy just for the boy just for a girl
just for a girl just for the boy

do you think that you can catch me

if i don't bang my head against your wall i know that you won't catch me
'cause i won't bang my head against that wall
