(Brie Larson)

From the beginning I was wishing that the first impression would last But then you came to me with something that was nothing, and you kept coming back Boy you kept coming back Trying to get next to me, I don't do all the flattery I'm telling you stay away, boy you're really driving me crazy
You're still the something that you've got inside and you're trying to show me
Everything I've wanted I'm breaking down
I think I'm coming around
Coming around, coming around
Coming around, coming around

Now I find you on my mind more and more as time goes by
All day, every day boy you're really driving me crazy You're still the something that you've got inside and
you're trying to show me
And every time I touch you it reaches out
I think I'm coming around
Coming around, coming around
Coming around, coming around
