He lived in the jungle

Where he was born the king

His great strength

Made him lord of everything

No creature crossed his path

And lived for long

His name, so legend tells us

Was King Kong

His height was never measured

But was great

The jungle shook beneath

His mighty weight

His arms were muscled

Steady as a tree

His chest was thick

And wide as it could be

(CHORUS)

Kamasami (King Kong)

Kamasami Kong (King Kong)

Kamasami (King Kong)

Kamasami Kong (King Kong) Kamasami

He didn't dance or party
He spoke at times but hardly
One woman heard his love call
But he was too big and too tall
One day while Kong
Was sleeping on his back
A tyrannosaurus launched
A sneak attack
They fought, first Kong
Went down, then up again
The fight went on
No one knew who would win
Kong reached and seized
The monster with both hands
Then summoned all the Strength at his command
He smashed the creature's
Mouth til it was split
Then like a child
Began to play with it
He beat his hairy chest
And looked around
Five miles away
They heard his roaring sound
(CHORUS)

He didn't dance or party
But he was too big and too tall
From every one he knew
He got respect
Whoever failed to give it
He'd correct
And lived for long
(CHORUS)
King Kong, King Kong
King Kong, King Kong
King Kong, King Kong...
