Don't believe the grass is always greener in the other fellow's yard.

Don't believe the air is always cleaner in the other fellow's yard.

Don't spend your time in grieving and moaning through the day, or you'll wake up some evening to find you moaned your life away.

Don't believe the road is never bumpy in the other fellow's yard.

Don't believe the outlook isn't jumpy and the way isn't hard

Be satisfied. Look over the fence, and if you do, you'll see the other fellow standing there admiring you.
