It's so violent when you are silent
I'm so easily frightened
I can smell the changing, stinks of something rotting
Not so pretty now my dear

My life, more than it ever was
My life, I live it just because

No day is safe with you around I'm scared but more scared of myself are you within, am I without
You keep changing all the rules and I always seem to lose
Nothing is certain anymore

My life, more than it ever was
My life, I love it just because

My life, more than it ever was
My life, I live it just because

My life, more than it ever was
My life, I live it just because

My life, more than it ever was
My life, I love it just because

My life, more than it ever was
My life, I live it just because

My life, more than it ever was
