If I will not eat a
Cow. . .
If a bible's in my house
If I spend my days in prayer

If a veil covers my Head
If I make the floor my Bed
What does it matter really?

If history could rewrite itself oh would it really change

If all the world's religions cannot keep us living together
Together
Together
Then what do we believe in maybe God is bigger than all this Than all this

There's darkness and then there's Light
The two always seem to Fight
Living in my soul without paying rent

My contradictions run
Deep
I try to work them out in my Sleep
So if I've hurt you please forgive me
If history could rewrite itself oh would it really change

Chorus repeat. . .

What do I believe in?
Maybe God is bigger than all this.
