"Why Won't You Touch Me"

You come to my table, oh so down in the heart You stay over iced margarita while other world can fall apart
Now we can be happy to be who we are
But some things run deeper than you'll ever say
On the darkest of blue days
You cry for these red skies above you Your eyes watch for someone to love you

What's wrong, why won't you touch me I've only one heart like your own and no more to hide What's wrong, why won't you trust me You're walking through shadows alone while I'm chilled to the bone by your side
