"Black Discharge"

We collectively flock to dispel our thirst from the streams of this
Depleting blue gold
But the god-like global power shifts away from the earth's Gelatinous black blood that fuels their darling death machines
The blood fueling and carelessly weaving every lifeless object that you
And I adore and yearn Texas tea bubbling beneath us is becoming the bastard step child of the Oil tycoons
For it's depleting, shriveling and the world is convulsing in dehydration!
For it's depleting, shriveling and the world is
convulsing in dehydration!
Black discharge flows, resembling a gaping wound feeding the Mouths of leeches and vultures under our weeping skies They've caught on that it's running out and move with guillotines and Bright smiles
For it's depleting, shriveling and the world is
convulsing in dehydration!
For it's depleting, shriveling and the world is
convulsing in dehydration!
Let's all naively sit and watch this progress, allow the common man to Have absolutely no rest
We collectively flock to dispel our thirst from the
streams of this
Depleting blue gold
streams of this
Depleting blue gold
