Don't turn away
Just say what you need to say
You're not alone
But you got to move on, got to let go
When the passion surrenders
When the dream you share is longer than
I know it hurts so much
Tell me, how in the world can you blame it on love?
And don't say it's love that broke your heart
When you trusted someone
Cuz love's the victim not the crime
And love will be there to break your fall
If you trust in love
Know that love would never, break your heart
Love can break your fall
I know, it's hard to trust again
I'll stay with you, stay with me now
Let go of your heartache
Learn to forgive
Won't you wait just a moment
Give your heart a chance to begin again
And though you run before
Tell me, where will you go if you walk out that door?
And don't say it's love that broke your heart
When you trusted someone
Cuz love's the victim not the crime
And love will be there to break your fall
If you trust in love, just in love
Know that love would never, break your heart
Love can break your fall
I could never have found my own way
It was God's love that saved this heart of mine from dying
And when you find this love is all that you have Then you'll see love is all that you need
And don't say it's love that broke your heart
When it's over and done
Believe in love forever
And love will be there to break your fall
If you trust in love, just in love
Know that love would never, break your heart
Love can break your fall
