Hello Mr. Sun today's the day we change our plans and end the war against our old selves so goodbye mr. rain your time has come your time has gone
so send your grey skies to someone else

sun shine on down
ease our troubles now

wring our worries out

here's to the girl who holds her heart out for the world not worried if her song is out of key and here's to the boy who loves the girl and tells her so couldn't give a damn what other people think

ease our troubles now

wring our worries out

we live our lives and take our chances we're still young enough to dream that we'll go far cos we don't care for all the answers while we're basking in your golden shangri-la

sun shine on down.
