(Tony Joe White)

Summer nights and the living is high
And wouldn't you know it
There's big old full moon risin' up in the sky.
And you know it's right the perfect night for homemade ice-cream

I can see those lightning buzz and the river flow
There's an old harmonica playing soft and low
And folks back home out on the front porch
Eating home-made ice-cream

But it's a shame that it's only in my mind
'Cause I'm stuck up here in the city, don't you know it's a pity
I'm grounded in making home-made ice-cream.
