Alone before your mirror
You're feeling sad
And you don't know why
You'd like to chase the blues away
But you can just stand there and sigh...

If melancholy is your name
And love has just become routine
Don't tell me all about your life
I know it well, the lonely days you've seen
If melancholy is your name
We will try to put it all behind us
Strays, misfits, the misunderstood
How do, how do, they always find us?

But perhaps tomorrow
Since anything can happen, near or far
Of course you'll show up right on time
And I will know just who you are

If melancholy is your name
And love has just become routine
Don't tell me all about your life
I know it well, the lonely days you've seen
If melancholy is your name
We will try to put it all behind us
Strays, misfits, the misunderstood
How do, how do, they always find us?

If melancholy is your name....
