Someday she wants a big ole house
Sitting on a big ole hill
And a mile long tree line drive way
Or a big ole Coupe Deville Yeah someday she wants a big ole bank account with too much to spend
But right now all she wants is a man

With a big ole heart who can love her like nobody can
Big ole kisses that go on and on and never end
With a big ole smile that'll fill her world with laughter
Size matters, size matters

Someday she wants a big ole ring with a big ole rock that shines
And a big ole walk in closet with shoes of every kind Someday she wants a big ole boat she can lay around getting a tan
But right now all she wants is a man

With a big ole heart who can love her like nobody can
Big ole kisses that go on and on and never end
With a big ole smile that'll fill her world with laughter
Size matters, size matters

With a big ole heart who can love her like nobody can
Big ole kisses that go on and on and never end
With a big ole smile that'll fill her world with laughter
Size matters, size matters, size matters
