

Joe Purdy "The Pretenders"

Visit "The Pretenders" on MotoLyrics.com

Sally wake up we don't have to pretend anymore.
Cause while you were sleeping I drove us to some
place the weather will always be warm.

And we can go outside and bury our faces in the sun.
And there's no need to worry cause no one will ask us
where it is that we came from.

We can walk on main street, dance in these honky tonk bars. No one will know who we are.

Well you like the water so much that you could be a fish. And, we're right by the ocean so you can go dipping any old time that you wish.

We'll watch the sunset and make love in the old life, and when the setting is done and we've lost the sun we will nap on a blanket of sand.

We can walk on water, and dance in the light of the moon. Honey, just me and you.
We'll wake a restaurant with fancy napkins and plates.
We'll watch the old man as he walks to the big white piano and sits down and plays.

The matradee calls me lucky as he pours our wine.
What a beautiful girl and I know in this world that the good one's are so hard to find.

We can walk on red carpet, dance to our favorite songs, and we can stay all night long.

Sally wake up, we don't have to pretend anymore.
Cause while you were sleeping I drove us to some
place the weather will always be warm.

Visit Joe Purdy page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.