I need you, and your rock foundation
It keeps my imagination in check

You don't remind me of all the stupid things I say and do.

You never tell me
What would be most true
That I'd be nothing,
I'd be nothing without you

The sun shines
But being out of winter does something for
The sinner in me

Like old wine, I feel I'm getting better
But the bottom of the bottle ain't clean

I heard you say, there's nothing wrong with me
That you can't cure (that's for sure)

You never tell me
What would be most true
That I'd be nothing
I'd be nothing without you

You don't remind me of all the stupid things I say and
do.

You never tell me
What would be most true
That I'd be nothing
I'd be nothing without you
