Let me know if you've heard this one.
It all starts gently in the morning sun.

But then the story turns, as you try to heal your burns.

And life, seduces even the coldest hearts.

It's so easy, when it's all going great.
You put your feet up laughing at your own fate.

But then the story turns, as you try to heal your burns.

And life, seduces even the coldest hearts.

You'll find ways to fade your own complaints.
But when the winds change, it blows them all away.

Then life, seduces even the coldest hearts.

But then the story turns, as you try to heal your burns.

Then life seduces even the coldest, coldest hearts.
